How long will your pension last?

Spoiler: probably not as long as you will.

Sub-line: Spoiler: probably not as long as you will.

Footer: Swipe →

VISUAL DIRECTION

Bold typography on a deep navy background. No imagery competing with the text — the words are the visual. Small NPS 2026 logo lockup in the top corner. The "swipe →" should be subtle but present. This slide is built to stop the thumb. Nothing else.

The retirement you're expecting and the retirement you're walking into are two different things.

One has a clear pension, predictable income, and a soft landing.

The other has delays, gaps, and surprises nobody warned you about.

Most Nigerians don't know which one is waiting for them.

Headline: The retirement you're expecting and the retirement you're walking into are two different things.

Body:

One has a clear pension, predictable income, and a soft landing.

The other has delays, gaps, and surprises nobody warned you about.

Most Nigerians don't know which one is waiting for them.

VISUAL DIRECTION

Split-screen feel — left side suggests calm/order (clean icon set: pension slip, calendar, handshake), right side suggests disruption (broken/scattered version of the same icons, or a tipping scale). Keep it minimalist and editorial — no stock photos of older people looking worried. The contrast carries the message.

NPS 2026

The hardest part isn't retiring.

It's realising — six months in — that the plan you thought you had wasn't really a plan. It was a hope.

A hope that the gratuity would come on time.

A hope that the pension would stretch.

A hope that the family wouldn't still need to lean on you.

Pull-quote: Hope isn't a retirement strategy.

VISUAL DIRECTION

Quieter, more reflective slide. Muted dark background. Pull-quote styling for the line "Hope isn't a retirement strategy" — larger weight, set apart with an accent rule, italicised in the gold accent colour. This is the emotional centre of the carousel. Let it breathe. White space matters here. The line most likely to get screenshotted.

NPS 2026

The last 5–10 years before retirement are the only window that still belongs to you.

After that, the decisions are made for you — by timing, by policy, by circumstance.

Before that, most people aren't paying attention yet.

This is the window where preparation actually changes the outcome.

The question is whether you'll use it.

VISUAL DIRECTION

Introduce a visual metaphor for the window — a narrow band of light, an hourglass with the upper chamber highlighted, or a simple horizontal timeline with the 5–10 year segment marked in the gold accent colour. Type-led still, but this is where you can let one design element do real work. The tone shifts here from problem to agency.

VISUAL DIRECTION

Resolution slide — should feel different from the others. Warmer, more confident, more institutional. NPS 2026 logo more prominent. Partner logos (NLC, BPSR) along the bottom strip for credibility. Registration URL should be the most readable element after the headline. If brand allows, a subtle visual of the venue or an architectural cue from Yar'Adua Centre. Closes the loop opened in Slide 1.

The retirement most Nigerians are planning for doesn't exist.

You've given decades to the work. The title, the pension slip, the farewell handshake — that part is guaranteed.

What comes after isn't.

The gap between the retirement we expect and the retirement we actually walk into is where most of the pain lives. Delayed gratuity. A pension that doesn't stretch. Years of life we hadn't budgeted for. Adult children still leaning in. A system that moves slower than the bills.

This isn't a savings problem. It's a planning problem. And the last 5–10 years before you exit are the only window where it's still fixable.

The National Pre-Retirement Summit 2026 exists for exactly this conversation.

Two days. One room. The institutions, the policy voices, and the practitioners who can tell you the truth about what's waiting on the other side of your final payslip — and how to walk into it on your own terms.
